

Colorado Interstate Gas Pipeline

Kinder Morgan owns and operates Colorado Interstate Gas (CIG) - a 4,300 mile pipeline system that transports natural gas from production areas in the U.S. Rocky Mountains and the Anadarko Basin directly to customers in Colorado and Wyoming and indirectly to the midwest, southwest, California and Pacific Northwest.

CIG also owns interests in five storage facilities located in Colorado and Kansas, which collectively have approximately 43 billion cubic feet of underground working natural gas storage capacity and one natural gas processing plant located in Wyoming. CIG owns a 50 percent ownership interest in WYCO Development LLC, or WYCO, a joint venture with an affiliate of Xcel Energy, and operates WYCO's High Plains pipeline and Totem Gas Storage facility.
